Highlights

- Triodos Future Generations Fund generated a return (after costs) of 0.19%, while the benchmark yielded 0.43%.
- Global equity markets continued their rebound in June, although in Euros global equities’ gains were more muted. Main drivers were positive developments in tariff negotiations and increased confidence that the Fed will lower interest rates in 2025. This caused more cyclical sectors to outperform defensives ones. Companies exposed to AI also started to outperform again.
- The fund had a challenging month, as it’s more exposed to defensives sectors and less exposed to the AI theme. DuoLingo, one of the best performers in May, gave back some of its gains in June as investors grew concerned that growth expectations were a little too high. The fund’s biggest exposures are the Health Care and Industrials sectors.

Principal Adverse Impact Indicators (PAIs)

GHG intensity of investee companies: The GHG intensity is a relative measure of greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions. It is the amount of GHG produced per unit of revenue generated by the company, measured in tonnes of CO₂ per EURm generated in revenue. The carbon intensity is then weighted using the portfolio weight to get a weighted average for the portfolio.

Non-recycled waste ratio: For each company the non-recycled waste ratio is the total amount in metric tons of non-recycled waste produced divided by the amount invested in EURm. This is expressed as a weighted average.

Excessive CEO pay ratio: This metric measures the ratio within investee companies of the annual total compensation for the highest compensated individual to the median annual total compensation for all employees.
